STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT,
RALEIGH, December 31, 1907.

The Governor and Commander in Chief.

SIR:—As required by law, I have the honor to submit my annual report for the calendar year 1907, embracing reports of the several military departments of the State.

Looking back to the condition of the Guard at the commencement of the present year, I believe all branches of our service have been greatly improved during the past twelve months, and that we have now the best military organization, from a "peace" point of view, that the State has ever had. The troops are still using the Krag-Jorgensen rifle, a good, serviceable arm, the only objection to which is the resultant confusion when the organized militia participates in maneuvers with the regular army; but this trouble will be remedied within the next six months by the issue to the States of an ample supply of the new magazine rifles now in use in the army. This new issue, we are assured by the Ordnance Department at Washington, will be made by May 1, 1908.

Additional uniforms were obtained last summer, and, with a very few exceptions, every company has now enough military clothing for all practical purposes. The strength of the Guard at this date aggregates 2,078 officers and enlisted men of the land forces and 290 officers and enlisted men of the naval militia, a grand total of 2,368. The land forces, composed of three regiments of infantry and one battery of field artillery, constitute the First Brigade, thoroughly organized for service and commanded by officers of experience and ability.

The naval militia, designated by law as a constituent part of the National Guard of the State, consists of six divisions—double the number in existence a year ago. These divisions, as you are aware, are located in the extreme eastern section of the State, contiguous to the seacoast, well armed and equipped for service, and splendidly officered. The Naval Brigade was strengthened during the year by the acceptance and muster in of new divisions at Plymouth, Elizabeth City and Beaufort, and its ranks are now complete. The efficiency of the naval militia would be greatly promoted for service afloat, if a suitable ship could be secured for practice cruises and marine exercises, and I suggest that early action be taken to obtain a naval vessel.

In accordance with general orders, the First Infantry spent five days in target practice on the State range at Camp Glenn, commencing August 9th. The work performed on the range was not as satisfactory as had been hoped for, owing to circumstances for which no blame could reasonably attach to the officers on duty. On account of the inexperience of the men and the lack of proper preliminary training, the scores fell below expectations, but it was worth a great deal to the men to get the practice, and it is confidently believed that the next annual practice will show great improvement. The range has been completed, and every convenience has been provided for obtaining good results, and I see no reason why, in the course of a very few years, the State will not be able to boast of a full quota of excellent marksmen. As was emphasized in my last report, the importance of frequent target practice cannot be overestimated, because neither the State nor the War Department has any use for soldiers who can't shoot straight. I renew the recommendation heretofore made, that for the present the encampments at Camp Glenn be devoted entirely and exclusively to target practice, and that all ceremonies be suspended, in order that the whole period of encampment can be utilized in teaching our troops both the theory and the practice of target firing. It is well enough for our soldiers to be able to make a good showing in executing the manual of arms, and in presenting nicely aligned company fronts while marching in review, but accurate marksmanship is what we need and must have, and this can only be accomplished by continuous target practice. Now that we have a permanent range and ample facilities, there is no excuse in the world why our guardsmen cannot attain to a high state of proficiency in this all-important duty, and it will be the fault alone of the officers in charge if satisfactory results are not secured. In this connection I beg to remind you that, for the first time in its history, the State was represented in the National Shoot, held at Camp Perry, Ohio, last August, the team consisting of the proper quota of officers and men, selected from the three infantry regiments. It was my privilege to attend this shoot, and it was an inspiring sight to witness teams from not less than forty States and Territories competing in the national match. Our own men were badly handicapped by difficulties and troubles which had not been anticipated, and which could not be corrected after their arrival at Camp Perry; but every one was eager to learn, and no one was discouraged by the fact that the team score was lower than that of any other State, except our good neighbor, Virginia. The army officers on duty, as well as those of the National Rifle Association, extended a warm welcome to North Carolina upon this, our first entry into the national competition, and everything possible was done, both socially and in an official way, to make our week's stay at Camp Perry pleasant and profitable. I recommend that the State be represented at the next shoot, which will be held at Camp Perry in August, 1908, and that, if possible, the services of an army officer be secured to train and coach our State team.

The encampment of the entire Guard at the Jamestown Exposition during North Carolina week, in August, was an event of extraordinary interest. Every branch of the Guard was present, and the land forces and the naval militia seemed to vie with each other in their efforts to make a creditable appearance, and to prove worthy of the State they represented. It was an admitted fact that North Carolina had more troops at the Exposition at one time than any other State, and it was rightfully claimed that the North Carolina National Guard, as a whole, created a better impression than the organized militia of any other State. It was especially noticeable that the Naval Brigade, primarily organized for service afloat, showed up remarkably well as a landing force. Their appearance fully justified your action, as Commander in Chief, in making a special allowance for their attendance at the Exposition. While it is possibly true that our troops may not have been appreciably benefited from a strictly military point of view, yet the encampment at Jamestown no doubt served to favorably advertise the State, and attract the notice of strangers to us, by virtue of our varied resources and the sterling character of our people. It was a cause for much congratulation that the conduct of all the troops at the Exposition was for the most part exemplary, as reported by the officers in command, as well as evidenced by the testimony of civilians and the officials of the Exposition. I was greatly gratified by what I saw myself in this respect, and, so far as I could observe and hear, there was not a single case of misconduct amongst those who marched under our State colors.

The reports of the Disbursing Officer and of the Paymaster General show the condition of the Guard from a business and financial point of view, and it is gratifying to note that our finances are in a very healthy state. The reports of the Inspector General and Inspector of Small Arms Practice indicate that those departments have been administered in a very able manner. In fact, it is due to all the heads of departments to say that they have, without exception, discharged their duties with absolute fidelity to the trust reposed in them, and I venture to say that no fault can reasonably be found with any of their official acts during the past year. They have appeared at all times ready and anxious to cooperate with me in everything undertaken for the good of the Guard, and my association with them has been characterized by perfect harmony and good feeling.

By referring to the report of the Inspector General it will be seen that several companies were recommended to be disbanded for what that efficient officer considered good and sufficient reasons; but, as you will recall, some of the organizations in question were allowed a second inspection, which enabled most of them to remain in the service. To take the place of those finally disbanded, two new companies were organized and accepted, respectively, at Durham and Weldon, and the indications are that these two new organizations will prove valuable acquisitions to the Guard. The annual inspections were made by Col. Thomas Stringfield, Inspector General, representing the State, and by Maj. T. B. Dugan, Twelfth United States Cavalry, representing the War Department, the details of which appear elsewhere in this report.

The Guard was not called out at any time during the past year to assist the civil authorities in the preservation of the public peace—a circumstance which was very gratifying; and, so far as I can see, there is a profound respect for law and order throughout the entire State. The fact that we have a thoroughly organized body of citizen soldiers, known to be at all times prepared and willing to answer a call to duty, gives a feeling of security to the people at large that could come from no other source.

To the members of the Guard, both officers and men, I desire to express my appreciation of the patriotic, self-sacrificing spirit that, I am sure, animates them all in their manifest purpose to keep up their respective organizations to a high standard, and to perform public duty whenever called upon.

I beg herewith to thank you, as Commander in Chief, for the encouragement and consideration which you have uniformly extended to me in the discharge of my official duties.

Very respectfully,

THOS. R. ROBERTSON,

Brigadier General, Adjutant General and Chief of Staff.

REPORT OF QUARTERMASTER GENERAL.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
OFFICE OF
THE QUARTERMASTER GENERAL AND CHIEF OF ORDNANCE,
HENDERSON, January 1, 1908.

THE ADJUTANT GENERAL,
State of North Carolina,
Raleigh.

SIR:—I have the honor to submit the annual report of the operations of the Quartermaster's and Ordnance Departments for the fiscal year ending November 30, 1907, together with statement of receipts and disbursements to date, as United States Disbursing Officer.

UNIFORMS AND EQUIPMENT.

On paper it would appear that the Guard has reached its highest point of perfection in respect to uniforms and equipment. As a matter of fact, this is not true. I attended inspections this year where the army officer classified as serviceable old uniforms more tattered and torn than were worn by the heroes of the Civil War after their last charge at Appomattox. In fact, after seeing this serviceable stuff, I am persuaded that the wag who said the smallest hole in his shirt was the one for his head to go through had not the slightest conception of a ragged garment. The presumption that these uniforms are serviceable would imply that each organization is or should be provided with a darning mill and a patch factory.

For the first time in the history of the Guard, so far as I can ascertain, a company of North Carolina troops was not sufficiently uniformed to appear in a review. That the occasion was North Carolina Day at the Jamestown Exposition, when the credit of the State was involved, added to the humiliation of our soldiers. On paper this company has serviceable uniforms largely in excess of its requirements.

This situation demands such attention as will make impossible a recurrence of such incidents as the one mentioned.

PROPERTY RECEIVED AND ISSUED ON REQUISITIONS.

Abstract No. 1 furnishes the information required in this respect.

CAMP EQUIPAGE.

The Guard is fairly well supplied with this property, but, from long use, some of the tents are not in a serviceable condition; indeed, the percentage of unserviceable tents is larger than it should be. If authorized to do so, I will have repaired those not now of use, and, by doing so, save a considerable expense. For the Jamestown movement I was forced to purchase five cook stoves. They answered very well for that service, but are not built for military purposes, therefore will not stand as would be expected of a military pattern.

INSURANCE.

In the matter of insurance, I am at a loss to either suggest or recommend what action should be taken to bring about a proper, fair and fixed course of action. I have from time to time reported the insurance conditions, and my reports were accompanied by statements showing that some companies were obeying orders by carrying the insurance required, out of the funds appropriated for that purpose, while others were not doing this; and, since it must have been the purpose of the Legislature to make the distribution of the State funds upon a fair basis, I still think this a matter of sufficient importance to deserve attention. I am without authority or power to enforce the order requiring insurance on property, as my reports will show. I now recommend that the order be revoked.

FITTING UNIFORMS.

The fact that an unusually large stock of small-size uniforms has accumulated in the arsenal again brings before us the importance of securing on requisitions the sizes required to fit the men. This is occasioned by a change in specifications prescribed in General Orders from the War Department. These specifications were not observed in the requisitions for uniforms. How far the proper authorities were notified of the changes this Department has no official information. Prior to the time for making such requisitions (May 8, 1907), this Department took steps to notify the proper officers of these changes, but was prevented by the action of the Adjutant General, who assumed that duty.

We have in the arsenal sufficient clothing to uniform the men in the Guard who are not now provided for, but the stock is composed of schoolboy sizes and, I think, will never be of use to the National Guard. I will endeavor, however, to make an exchange with the Quartermaster's Department at Washington for larger sizes, but, this being contrary to established rules, I am not very hopeful of success.

ENCAMPMENTS.

It is not possible to give in detail a report of the encampment matters. It is sufficient to say that, with the exception of the inconveniences caused through transportation irregularities, there appears to have transpired nothing to disarrange the plans made for the comfort and convenience of the troops.

ARTILLERY ARMS AND EQUIPMENT.

A transfer of arms and equipment for the use of the First Battery, Field Artillery, was authorized by the War Department from the Governor of Rhode Island to the Governor of North Carolina. The shipment checked short. The matter was referred to the War Department, and settlement is now pending.

PROPERTY RETURNS.

I presume that North Carolina is the only State without a system of property accountability. We have had a system, and it was a pleasure to know that, because of its advantages, our method of accounting for property was recommended by the War Department to the Adjutant General of every State in the Union for the use of his respective National Guard. The system has been abandoned here. It is not strange that this retrogression works a particular hardship in the State. While on duty with us, Brig. Gen. Carle A. Woodruff, U. S. A., retired, suggested a set of forms for use by company commanders and others.

These forms would have made our system complete and as nearly perfect as it was possible to have, insuring to all concerned absolute protection against losses and errors. Some day North Carolina will be called upon to account for Government property. Then she may be embarrassed, for the law authorizes the Secretary of War to charge the value of property which is not properly accounted for by a State to its quota of the Federal allotment. Some States are even now having great trouble in this respect. It is estimated that the necessary consumption in the value of military stores and property in North Carolina amounts to from eight to ten thousand dollars annually, which ought to be credited on the Government account.

RECEIPTS AND DISBURSEMENTS.

I have the honor to invite your attention to Abstract No. 2, giving in detail a statement of the receipts and disbursements, under section 14, Militia Act of January 21, 1903. While the cash charges therein contained seem large against an appropriation which is not sufficient to meet the necessities arising thereunder, it is a matter of fact that the unusually heavy cost of the encampment this year was money well spent. I am now prepared to say that, in the interest of the Guard and the State as well, it was about the best used money for military purposes we have ever spent. I was not favorable to the movement when it was first proposed, because of the heavy expense, but I am now fully persuaded that it was the proper thing to do.

I desire to extend my thanks to the Commander in Chief for uniform and courteous co-operation and assistance. I desire, also, to express my appreciation of the many courtesies shown me by all the officers of the Guard.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANCIS A. MACON,

Quartermaster General, Chief of Ordnance and United States Disbursing Officer North Carolina.

SPECIAL REPORTS TO QUARTERMASTER GENERAL.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
OFFICE ADJUTANT GENERAL,
RALEIGH, June 26, 1907.

BRIGADIER GENERAL F. A. MACON,
Quartermaster General N. C. N. G.,
Henderson, N. C.

SIR:—In obedience to Special Orders No. 36, A. G. O., Raleigh, N. C., June 24, 1907, I proceeded to Sanford, N. C., June 25th inst., took charge of and made inventory of the quartermaster supplies and ordnance stores which had been in possession of the late Company M, Third Infantry, N. C. N. G. Captain K. B. Griffin, of said company, assisted in taking the inventory. A large part of the property was rendered unserviceable by recent fire in the armory building. All the property, serviceable and unserviceable, was shipped to the Arsenal at Raleigh, N. C. Copy of inventory is sent under separate cover.

Very respectfully,

R. L. LEINSTER,
Lt. Col. and Asst. A. G. N. C. N. G.

REPORT OF INSPECTOR GENERAL.

State of North Carolina,
Office of Inspector General,
Waynesville, December 1, 1907.

General Thomas R. Robertson,
Adjutant General N. C. N. G.,
Raleigh, N. C.

Sir:—In compliance with the law and regulations governing the North Carolina National Guard, I have the honor to submit my report of the inspection of the Guard for the year ending December 1, 1907.

In obedience to General Orders No. 2, dated Office Adjutant General, Raleigh, January 16, 1907, the inspection of the National Guard of North Carolina for the year 1907 was made during the months of February and March, at the stations and on the dates indicated in said orders.

I proceeded with this inspection, beginning with Company B, Second Infantry, Raleigh, North Carolina, February 18, finishing with Company H, First Infantry, Waynesville, North Carolina, March 21. Major T. B. Dugan, Twelfth Cavalry, U. S. A., accompanied me, making the inspection for the United States, as required under the provisions of the Dick law.

Detailed reports of inspection have already been forwarded to your Department. The following shows result of inspection, giving number present and absent and per cent. of attendance at inspection:

COMPANY BOOKS.

A majority of the companies have a complete set of books, but, with a few exceptions, they are not well kept. It is very important that the company records should be kept in a more correct and business-like manner.

ARMORIES.

With very few exceptions, the companies all have very good and convenient armories, which are kept in a very creditable manner.

DISBANDED COMPANIES.

I regret very much that it was necessary for me to recommend the disbanding of Company A, Third Infantry, at Lexington; Company K, Third Infantry, Raleigh; Company M, Third Infantry, Sanford; Company M, Second Infantry, Maxton; Company G, First Infantry, Shelby. Company K, Third Infantry, at Raleigh; Company M, at Maxton, N. C.; Company A, at Lexington, N. C., were given second trials later, and Company G, at Shelby, N. C., was allowed to reorganize.

NEW COMPANIES.

Two new companies were organized to take the places of those disbanded—one at Durham, N. C., and assigned to the Third Infantry, and one at Weldon, N. C., and assigned to the Third Infantry.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

The Medical Department is well equipped as to medical and surgical supplies, and the property is in very good condition.

UNIFORM AND EQUIPMENT.

The care of Government property is sadly neglected. A few of the company commanders look after their property in a business-like manner, and in these companies I find the property in excellent condition, but in the majority of cases it is very poorly cared for.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

I recommend that more attention be paid to instruction in the training of the soldiers in the proper methods of aiming and firing; that a better and more suitable arsenal be secured for the protection of property; that all company commanders be required to account more strictly for the better care of property under their care; that each company be allowed $100 to pay for clerical assistance and to provide for the better preservation of company property. Owing to the lack of time designated for the inspection, it was impossible for me to make as thorough an inspection as should have been made, and many things were unavoidably overlooked and others hastily passed upon. I understand that a great many organizations have taken steps to correct errors herein reported and that were pointed out to them at the inspection, and it is my belief that the inspection for 1908 will be far more satisfactory in every respect. To the officers of the National Guard of North Carolina I am under many obligations for courtesies and kindnesses shown me during my tour of inspection. I am also under obligations to Major T. B. Dugan, U. S. A., for much valuable information and assistance.

Very respectfully,

THOS. STRINGFIELD,
Col. and Insp. Gen. N. C. N. G.

REPORT OF INSPECTOR OF SMALL ARMS PRACTICE.

INSPECTOR SMALL ARMS PRACTICE N. C. N. G.,
FRANKLINTON, N. C., December 20, 1907.

GENERAL THOMAS R. ROBERTSON,
Adjutant General North Carolina,
Raleigh, N. C.

SIR:—I have the honor to respectfully submit this my annual report for the year 1907.

Special Order No. 20, of May 1st, and letter of instructions from the Military Advisory Board, through the Adjutant General, directed me to proceed to Camp Glenn and enter upon duty incident to completing the State rifle range and shooting the First Regiment of Infantry, in August. These instructions recommended that the range be completed as early as practicable and that not exceeding $5,000 be expended for that purpose, and to govern myself accordingly, conforming to the regulations laid down by the War Department for building ranges.

On May 2d I proceeded to the range site and employed laborers and teams most adjacent to the works, first clearing and ditching the range land, grading a skirmish run and firing points, then extending and building up the right and left wings of the backstop and abutments; also cutting out, draining and sheltering the markers' pit and building a storage house for the safe-keeping of all range material, etc. All constructions were made as per plans and blueprints from the War Department.

For four weeks the work progressed most satisfactorily. On Monday morning of the fifth week I arrived at the works at 7 A. M., called the roll and ordered the hands to work. Thereupon Mr. W. S. Eaton, who was at that time employed as one of the laborers, called the men to attention and read a document, not only signed by my hands, but by all the available laborers in that section, demanding that my ten-hour system be reduced to eight hours, which I immediately declined to accept. Mr. Eaton then called the hands off, leaving me alone, wondering what to do next. However, in three days I had a better working force than ever, and the work continued to progress satisfactorily.

In ten weeks my constructions were sufficient to catch all wild bullets and install twenty-five Aiken steel-frame double targets, carrying fifty A or B or twenty-five C targets, with the capacity of shooting fifty men at the time from any firing stage on the A or B or twenty-five on C, and fifty men in skirmish run at silhouettes D and E, with all of which targets the range is supplied.

My next work was grading and marking the 200, 300, 500, 600, 800 and 1,000 yard firing stages, as per modern ranges; then the installation of all targets, signal and danger flags, telephone and five pumps of good water on the range; also a pump and seats under the markers' shed, and a bathing pool in the pit.

All of the above work was completed at an expenditure of approximately $2,500 and ready for permanent use.

By this time I received my appointment as executive officer of the State range and Captain of the North Carolina team to Camp Perry, Ohio. Then I made requisition for score cards, books, ammunition, fifteen new rifles for the team, and published orders, as executive officer, to be observed by all who might shoot on the range. We did not get the fifteen new rifles for the team, which we all afterwards regretted very much.

On the 9th of August the First Regiment arrived, under the command of that hustling and untiring officer, Colonel J. T. Gardner. The detail from the Second Regiment arrived, under the command of Lieutenant T. R. Orrell, and the Third, Captain R. G. Gladstone. Both of these officers are old soldiers, fine workers, and rendered most active and useful service on the range.

For the first time one of my assistants, Major L. B. Bristol, was ordered out to assist in my department. Major Bristol took charge of the score books, kept the records, being deeply interested, a hard worker, and rendered the most valuable assistance I have had. (Read his report of the firing by companies, herewith attached.)

Colonel Gardner ordered his regiment to report on the range by companies, but they never reported their full strength. (See Lieutenant Colonel Bristol's report.)

The men reporting for duty were fired as prescribed in Special Course "C."

At first we had some trouble in securing competent scorers, markers and range officers, which consumed considerable time. A large majority of the men were poorly drilled in aiming, fixing sights, taking windage, elevation, etc., though they seemed deeply interested and anxious to learn. But few knew the shooting capacity of their rifles and how to care for and use them to advantage. All this results in loss of time and ammunition and in poor marksmanship. Captains should be required to drill their companies in target practice on their home ranges and make semiannual reports to the Inspector of Small Arms Practice.

I would suggest that at the next encampment the men be required to spend most of their time in rifle practice, cutting out guard duty and other drills, as they do at the National ranges.

I heard of no complaint or danger whatever from the range.

After spending all the time possible in practicing the regiment in Special Course "C," it was withdrawn from the range to make room for the detail of thirty-six men from the three regiments. I took charge of these thirty-six men, selected by their respective captains to shoot for the North Carolina team at the National Shoot at Camp Perry. These men were practiced under the rules and regulations as prescribed in orders for shooting on the National range. After they had fired two sighting and ten record shots at 200, 300, 500 and 600 yard stages, inclusive, also one skirmish run from 600 yards at silhouettes D and E, the twelve men making the highest total score were designated as the team and the three scoring next highest as alternates. I will here state that the detail of thirty-six men had only one day to practice on the range at 200 to 600 yards at A and B targets and one skirmish run at 600 yards. Time being very limited, we had to cut out the 800 and 1,000 yard practice. The team and alternates having been selected, each man on his own record as marksman, I lined them up and told them plainly and positively what duties would be required of them at Camp Perry, and, if any man would not go and comply to the letter with all orders he might receive, to step out of ranks and let the next best shot of the detail take his place. Only one man fell out. I then proceeded to shoot this team of fifteen men over the same stages as the thirty-six men had shot, but having only a few hours before leaving with the regiment, in obedience to orders, for Jamestown, we did not have the time to practice. This team should not have gone to Jamestown, but been compelled to remain at the range a few days and practice before going to Camp Perry. I will further state that not a member of the team had ever fired a shot at 800 and 1,000 yards C target, or 200 yards A rapid-fire, before going to Camp Perry. The team going to the National Shoot in the future should have a few days' preliminary practice, as other State teams.

At Jamestown I was advised by superior officers to order the team to mobilize in Washington City on August 23d. There we met Generals Robertson and Macon, who provided us with transportation to Camp Perry and return.

We left Washington at 10 o'clock A. M., August 24th, arriving at Camp Perry Sunday at 3 o'clock P. M., August 25th. On arrival I immediately reported to the Post Adjutant at the Administration Building and registered my team, receiving my certificate of registration. We were then assigned to our quarters, and that afternoon drew tents, cots, blankets and other camp equipment. The night of the 25th I received orders from the executive officer of the range to report with my team at group 2, run 3, 600 yard range, at 7 A. M., the 26th, for preliminary skirmish. We reported promptly and had the privilege of seeing two skirmish runs before our turn came, at 8 A. M. The North Carolina Captain was ordered to fall in skirmish line with some half-dozen other teams. Here we were issued ammunition and orders that the coach, spotter and range officer fall out, the team Captain being the only officer allowed in the run. All the commands were given by the bugle, and my men were completely at sea, as they had never received commands by the bugle. At the command "Forward," however, we found that each of us had an army officer at our heels, who coached us to perfection. These army officers composed our rear rank at all our shooting at Camp Perry, and every man had to comply strictly with army regulations. I received orders to take my team in two days' preliminary practice on various ranges; then two days in competition. There were fifty-one teams in the competition, and I noticed that almost all of them had new rifles. After the first day's shooting, I asked some army officers to come to our quarters that night and calibrate our rifles. They inspected our sights, trigger pulls and barrels, and found nine of our rifles bell-mouthed, which made them unreliable on the 800 and 1,000 yard ranges. This was very discouraging to my men, knowing that we had only three rifles that would cope with our strong competitors. However, the score of the North Carolina team stood in order during the four days' shooting ahead of several States, except on the long ranges, upon which they had had no previous practice. We did not register at foot a single day during the preliminary or competition.

As the National Rifle Association furnishes all teams officers, except Captain and spotter, I see no use in sending a range officer and coach in the future, thus cutting down all expenses possible and allowing the team $1.50 each per day for subsistence; otherwise they will have to pay their own subsistence individually.

I am glad to report that every member of the team conducted himself in a soldier-like manner, obeying all orders and reflecting credit upon his State.

At the next encampment it will be wise to detail the members of this team as special instructors on the range. Officers and men composing the team this year are very enthusiastic on the subject of rifle practice, and gained much information, which should be of great value to the Guard in the future. The team of 1907 will be delighted to be returned to the National Shoot in 1908.

In this connection I will say that, in view of the fact that a place on the State rifle team, which is selected annually and sent to represent the Commonwealth in the national matches which are conducted by the Federal Government, under the auspices of the National Board of Rifle Practice, established by act of Congress, is the highest honor which the State has to confer upon its expert riflemen, aside from the medals and insignia indicative of such qualification, it is the policy of this Department to encourage rifle practice and disseminate knowledge to the greatest number among the members of the National Guard of North Carolina, so that the ambitious may be encouraged and the proficient rewarded, and all who qualify as expert riflemen and have performed 75 per cent. of all military duties required of them during the preceding year, will be given an opportunity to compete for a place on the North Carolina team.

REPORT OF BRIGADE COMMANDER.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE, N. C. N. G.,
December 1, 1907.

ADJUTANT GENERAL OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Raleigh, North Carolina.

SIR:—I have the honor to make report of the First Brigade for the year 1907.

The strength of the brigade is nominally the same as last reported—1,750 enlisted men, with a full quota of officers. Two companies have been mustered out of the service for inefficiency during the year, and two organized and mustered in.

The arms of the regiments are the same as reported last year, to-wit, the Krag-Jorgensen rifle, with the regulation side arms and accoutrements. The First Battery, Field Artillery, is equipped with four breech-loading rifles, caliber 3.2, model 1897; four carriages with limbers, four caissons with limbers, one wagon artillery store, one wagon forge and battery, with the necessary regulation harness, saddles, revolvers and sabers, one each per enlisted man, and other necessary regulation individual field equipment.

The clothing for the different organizations of the brigade has been augmented during the year by supplying most of them with additional uniforms, thereby completing the needs of most of them in this respect. There are several organizations insufficiently supplied with clothing, having only one kind of uniform, whereas they should have both the winter and summer uniforms.

Several companies are still short of enough rifles to arm their enlisted strength. These deficiencies should be remedied as early as possible.

Reports, as prescribed by regulations, have not been forwarded by commanding officers as promptly and regularly as the regulations prescribe and as should be done.

Regulations governing the Guard to meet present-day requirements, which are so much needed, I will state, have been completed by the board, of which I was a member a year ago. These regulations should be placed in the hands of the troops at as early a time as possible.

The troops encamped in the field this year at Jamestown, Va., from August 12th to 16th, the First Regiment joining the brigade on August 14th, coming from Camp Glenn, Morehead City, where they had been at target practice for three days previous. The camp at Jamestown was situated outside of and adjoining the exposition grounds. The same was established by the commanding officer of the United States forces encamped there, and partly by the brigade. There was no drill ground available, excepting Lee Parade, inside of the grounds, and this could not be secured for drill purposes except at odd intervals, as other troops were also using the same. The soldiers had free access to the grounds. Taken altogether, with so many attractions to distract the attention of the men, and the short stay, very little drilling or other instruction could be had; however, the brigade did all that was necessary under the circumstances.

The Naval Brigade, Captain Tom Daniels commanding, reported and was attached to the brigade on the 12th.

By permission from the War Department, the commissary officer purchased needed rations for the command, at prices at which they were furnished the regular army, at the government commissary storehouse at Norfolk, thereby saving in cost and supplying sufficiently the needs of the men without delay or trouble.

The medical attendants and hospital arrangement for the camp, under the charge of Major F. H. Holmes, were ample and very satisfactory. Very little sickness, and that of a minor nature, occurred.

The water supply furnished from the city supply, in pipes running through camp, was very bad for the first two days, owing to the fact that the pipes, which had been standing full of water for ten days, could not be flushed, on account of insufficient pressure, and no little trouble was experienced in securing good water.

The troops arrived—the Second and Third Regiments and the First Battery, Naval Reserves, Clinton and Reidsville Hospital Corps detachments—on the evening of the 12th, reporting the following strength:

|---|---|---|
| Brigade, Field and Staff Officers | | 5 |
| Medical Department | officers 4, enlisted men | 24 |
| Second Infantry | officers 47, enlisted men | 553 |
| Third Infantry | officers 53, enlisted men | 591 |
| First Battery | officers 3, enlisted men | 51 |
| Naval Brigade | officers 21, enlisted men | 183 |
| The First Regiment joined the morning of the 14th | officers 51, enlisted men | 563 |
| Total present | officers 184, enlisted men | 1,965 |

On Tuesday, the 13th, the Second and Third Regiments paraded in honor of and were reviewed by the Governor of Massachusetts. On the 14th, brigade formation and review by the brigade commander on Lee Parade. On the 15th, North Carolina Day, the brigade paraded and was reviewed by the Commander in Chief, Governor Glenn. On the 15th the Governor and Commander in Chief visited camp and was received, the prescribed honors being rendered.

This camp broke on the 16th at 6 o'clock P. M., troops returning directly to their home stations. The troops, including the three infantry regiments, First Battery, Naval Reserves, and Hospital Corps detachments, made a very creditable appearance on all occasions of ceremony or parade in which they took part. The good order and fine behavior of the men en route to and from Jamestown and while there speak well for all the organizations and is very gratifying.

The following are the general orders and circulars issued during the year:

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE, N. C. N. G.,
STATESVILLE, N. C., May 7, 1907.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 1.

The Brigade Commander enjoins upon the officers and noncommissioned officers of this brigade systematic instruction of their companies and detachments, both as individuals and as a body, in discipline, military courtesy, acquainting them with the Articles of War, the regulations and the care and preservation of their arms, clothing and equipment. Drill in the school of the soldier, leading up to company and battalion drill. This can be done in the armory. The armory is the primary school of our National Guard, and while battalion drill cannot be carried out entirely therein, intervals, distances and precision may be taught and acquired.

Guard mounting should be performed by companies, the men posted as sentinels, and taught the duties of a sentinel on post. Theoretical instruction of officers and noncommissioned officers must be had to fit them to know their business while giving instruction to their men. It is desired to have this brigade a well-disciplined, well-iustructed body of men. If it requires more than the number of drills prescribed by regulations to attain this standard within an early date, the necessary number of drills and schools must be held to do so.

By command of

BRIGADIER GENERAL J. F. ARMFIELD.

R. L. LEINSTER,
Lt. Col. and Asst. Adjt. General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE, N. C. N. G.,
STATESVILLE, N. C., June 1, 1907.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 2.

In pursuance of General Orders No. 1, First Brigade, May 7, 1907, company and detachment commanders, including bands, will, on the first days of the months of July and August, 1907, forward to these headquarters, through regimental commanders, a written report of all drills and schools held for the month preceding. This report will include the date, nature, number in attendance, and the duration of each. By command of

BRIGADIER GENERAL J. F. ARMFIELD.

R. L. LEINSTER,
Lt. Col. and Asst. Adjt. General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE, N. C. N. G.,
STATESVILLE, N. C., July 29, 1907.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 3.

1. In obedience to General Orders No. 10, A. G. O., Raleigh, N. C., July 22, 1907, the Second and Third Regiments of Infantry, First Battery Field Artillery, Clinton and Reidsville Hospital Corps Detachments, will go into camp for instruction at Jamestown Exposition, near Norfolk, Va., on August 12th, for a period of five days. The First Regiment of Infantry and Charlotte Hospital Corps Detachment will proceed from camp at Morehead to camp at Jamestown the 13th of August, reporting, on arrival, for duty to the commanding officer of the First Brigade.

2. The Quartermaster General and Disbursing Officer is charged with the furnishing of transportation, subsistence, camp equipage and the pay of the troops. Detail information will be furnished by the head of that department concerning same.

3. Regimental commanders will assign the proper medical attendants to each troop train carrying their respective regiments to and from camp, from the medical detachments assigned their regiments.

4. Regulations governing troops traveling by rail, as previously prescribed by orders from these headquarters, will be complied with. Good discipline will be maintained at all times en route to and from camp, and while in camp. Before entraining their commands officers responsible will make thorough inspection of cars, seeing that sanitary conditions of same are good, the water supply is wholesome and sufficient, and kept so while en route. The senior commissioned officer in each car will be held responsible for the preservation of cleanliness and good order. Sentinels will be stationed at each door of the car inside to prevent unauthorized persons from entering them, and to keep soldiers from riding on the steps, platforms or tops of cars, and from leaving the cars without permission. If it be necessary for soldiers to leave the cars they should do so under their officers. The commanding officer will cause frequent inspections to be made to see that these instructions are carried out.

5. On arrival at camp regimental commanders will immediately post the necessary camp guard in and around their regiments, and make report in writing of the strength and condition of their regiments to headquarters.

6. The uniform for enlisted men, to be worn and carried, will be the cotton khaki, with campaign hat and leggings—the blue uniform, with cap, to be boxed and carried as baggage. Officers will carry the khaki and blue uniform, using the proper head gear, shoes and leggings with each.

7. The arms furnished by the Government to enlisted men and officers will be carried, and no others. No ball or blank cartridges will be carried except by duly authorized officers.

8. Field equipment will be carried as follows: Tin cup, haversack, containing meat can, knife, fork and spoon, canteen, shelter tent roll, with one blanket, one suit underwear, two pair stockings, one face towel, one cake of soap, one comb, five shelter tent pins, the tent poles fastened to the tent roll at the back, with the end and next to the end straps.

9. Regimental and company commanders will carry with them the prescribed books for records, blanks for ration returns and reports.

10. Field and staff officers will be required to be mounted, and will furnish their horses and horse equipment.

11. Commanding officers will carry no men to camp who are not regularly enlisted, or who are unable to perform military duty, either from physical disability or a lack of knowledge to do so in a reasonably intelligent manner, or those who cannot comply with orders in dress or equipment. No chronic alcoholics will be carried or taken. No spirituous liquors will be permitted, either on board trains or in camp.

12. This is to be a camp for instruction; at the same time, the brigade is to represent North Carolina at a national affair in another State. It behooves every man in the brigade to so conduct himself by manner of dress and deportment, on or off duty, as will reflect credit on himself, his command and State.

13. This order will be published to organizations the first drill or meeting after receipt of same. By command of

BRIGADIER GENERAL J. F. ARMFIELD.

REPORT OF COMMANDER OF NAVAL BRIGADE.

NEW BERN, N. C., January 15, 1908.

GEN. THOMAS R. ROBERTSON,

Adjutant General N. C. N. G.,

Raleigh, North Carolina.

SIR:—I have the honor to submit herewith my report for the year 1907 as commanding officer of the Naval Militia, National Guard, State of North Carolina.

The past year has been one of very great growth and enthusiasm in our department of the Guard, as a natural result of the interest created by the Commander in Chief and yourself in making the Naval Brigade a component factor of the National Guard.

The beginning of this growth was under the stimulus of the Commander in Chief's action in allowing sufficient funds for the purpose of a cruise in 1906. Another very great factor in building up the Naval Militia has been the great interest manifested by Congressman C. R. Thomas, through whose very earnest and personal efforts Congress allows the Naval Militia to draw clothing and other general naval supplies under their general appropriation from the United States Government. The fact that we can thoroughly equip every department without expense to the individual seamen has developed a great number of organizations along the eastern waterway of North Carolina, who have applied to be assigned as a part of the military force of North Carolina and attached to the Naval Militia. In consequence of this enthusiasm the brigade has increased from two divisions, located at Wilmington and New Bern, to six divisions, located at Wilmington, New Bern, Windsor, Plymouth, Elizabeth City and Beaufort, with applications on file from Hertford and Belhaven.

I would recommend that you establish our maximum number of divisions as eight (8) instead of six (6), as we have been held to during the past year. The maximum number has been eight (8) divisions since its organization up to the present year.

Through the interest of the Commander in Chief and yourself the brigade, for the first time since its organization, upon my request was ordered by you to encamp at the Jamestown Exposition, together with the balance of the State Guard. On account of insufficient funds being allowed, only four divisions of the brigade were ordered into camp, but by a personal sacrifice on the part of the various divisions I was enabled to take into camp the six divisions of the brigade, utilizing the line officers for staff duty, no staff officer of the brigade being taken to camp.

The encampment was of great benefit, both as instruction and as an outing for the brigade, and a great deal of benefit was derived therefrom.

The sum of $1,200, which was allowed for the expense of the brigade, was not sufficient to meet even the expense of the four divisions ordered into camp, the railroad arrangements taking very nearly all of this amount, and it became necessary for the various division commanders to subsist their men at their own personal expense and at a cost to them individually of $309.14, making the absolutely necessary expenses of the encampment $1,509.14. Upon presentation by yourself of this expense, the Commander in Chief has agreed to allow the sum of $250. This amount has not yet been received by me, and I would recommend and request that a voucher be issued, so that I can make up a detailed account of the expenditures of the encampment, to be submitted to you.

I have requested that the brigade be organized into battalions, in accordance with the law, with the First, Second and Sixth Divisions in the First Battalion, and the Third, Fourth and Fifth in the Second Battalion, and that an order be issued for an election of battalion officers.

The present growth of the Naval Brigade makes it absolutely necessary, in order that the brigade may have proper instructions and be prepared for its duties afloat, to have a ship assigned to this State, our brigade being one of the very few in the Naval Militia of the United States who have no ship assigned to them for instructions. I would therefore recommend that the Commander in Chief request of the Navy Department the assignment to our State of a ship for instruction of the Naval Militia, said ship to be of a mean draft not to exceed eight (8) feet.

I would recommend that a sufficient sum be allowed the Naval Brigade for their instruction afloat or ashore during the coming summer, and that a portion of the time be devoted to instruction in rifle practice on the range at Morhead City camp ground, with a view to qualifying marksmen and sharpshooters from this branch of the service for competition in the annual meet.

The divisions are in better condition than they have ever been before. The officers are enthusiastic in their work and are preparing themselves to be thorough and competent for any duty that emergency may demand. The enlisted men are zealous and enthusiastic and are giving a great deal of their time and attention to their duties and drill.

I desire to express my very great appreciation and pleasure at the magnificent showing made by my brigade when on duty at Jamestown, eliciting, as it did, so very many complimentary reports from officers of high rank in both military and naval life.

I have the honor to be,

Yours truly,

TOM C. DANIELS,

Captain Commanding Naval Militia, N. C. N. G.

REPORT OF FIRST INFANTRY.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST INFANTRY, N. C. N. G.,
SHELBY, N. C., December 5, 1907.

THE ADJUTANT GENERAL,
State of North Carolina.

SIR:—I have the honor of submitting my annual report for the year 1907.

With the Inspector General, Colonel Thomas Stringfield, and Major Dugan, of the regular army, I visited the regiment last spring. We found the companies all camping, with only about the minimum enlistment of forty to forty-five enlisted men, and at that time I recommended that no increase above forty-five men be made, as that was about all they could equip, and that with our present appropriation could be kept at camp. If we increase the enlistment to fifty-eight men, and do not get an increase from the State or United States, we will not be able to remain in camp over four or five days unless we reduce the number of regiments to two, of twelve companies each. I believe it is for the best interest of the Guard that there be but two regiments in the State. It is an impossibility to equip and maintain three regiments of twelve companies each of fifty-eight enlisted men, unless the State or Federal Government increase their appropriations.

In obedience to orders from the Adjutant General the First Regiment were encamped at Morehead City, N. C., for rifle practice, from August 9th to 13th, inclusive. Good work was done on the range at the 300 and 500 yard ranges by the whole regiment. A record of such will be forwarded you by Colonel McGhee, so he informs me, and for that reason I will not include it here. The range was in good condition, targets worked well and the men all took great interest in the shooting. I wish here to thank Colonel McGhee, Major Bristol and Lieutenant Hessian and the officers and men detailed from the Second and Third Regiments for the assistance given us.

The provisions this year were issued at Morehead, under the supervision of Captain J. F. Roberts, my commissary officer. All the companies had plenty to eat and fared well, and not a single complaint came to me of "short rations." May it ever be so, is my desire.

The grounds at Morehead need attention. They should be fenced and grass planted to sod the ground.

We went from Morehead to Jamestown for three days. The time spent in Jamestown was so short that we had but little time for anything but pitch and break camp. It was a very tiresome trip, but because of the glory the North State got out of it and the show the whole Guard made, I am glad we went. North Carolina did good that day, and to the three infantry regiments and the Naval Brigade much credit is due. The Governor of North Carolina should feel proud that upon the day of the parade the greatest number of people entered the grounds during the whole time of the exposition. I trust in his recommendations to his successor he will urge that a larger appropriation be made by the State to aid the Guard.

Out of 54 officers 50 were present, and of 589 enlisted men 561 were present. The Hospital Corps, under Major Glenn and Captain Witherspoon and Lieutenant Harris, gave every needed attention to the men, for which I wish to express personally my thanks.

Lieutenant Colonel Butler resigned from the regiment, owing to the press of business. We all miss his advice, counsel and aid. We gave him up with much regret. His place was filled by promoting Major Bessent to Lieutenant Colonel and Captain Parks to Major. Major Hearn resigned, and his vacancy was filled by promoting Lieutenant Lawrence W. Young. Trust we will have no more vacancies to fill soon. Good behavior was expected and required of the men going to and from camp, and I am pleased to report that nothing occurred going, while at camp or returning to cause the newspapers to take a "whack" at us this year. I am proud of the officers and men of the whole Guard, but especially so of the First Regiment.

Trust by another year we will have two khaki uniforms for all the men, and that we may spend ten full days or more at Morehead City at target practice. I worked the men hard in the morning and gave them the afternoon, and found that I got better work out of the men in that way.

Very respectfully,

J. T. GARDNER,

Colonel First Infantry, N. C. N. G.

REPORT OF SECOND INFANTRY.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND REGIMENT, N. C. N. G.,
WASHINGTON, N. C., November 26, 1907.

THE ADJUTANT GENERAL, NORTH CAROLINA,
Raleigh, N. C.

SIR:—In accordance with the law, I have the honor to submit my annual report for the year ending December 1, 1907.

All orders have been promptly transmitted during the year.

No part of the regiment has been called to the aid of the civil authorities.

In company with the Inspector General and Major Dugan, U. S. A., I inspected Companies M, L, C, D, E, G and I during the early part of the year. It was found that there was in the hands of some of the companies sufficient equipment of certain kinds to equip two companies. This does not necessarily mean that these were accumulated during the present company commander's administration, but it does indicate that our method of issuing and requisitioning equipment is sadly at fault. Any one conversant with National Guard matters will know how uncertain is the time of membership, and that uniforms that will fit John Doe, who leaves the Guard before his term expires, will not fit his successor; and, however disinclined one man may be to wear the cast-off clothing of another, it is necessary at times to do this, and even then the cost of equipping a National Guard man is probably greater than in the regular army. Yet, even taking this obstacle into account, a great saving can be made in the cost of equipping the Guard if that same care is given in filling a requisition that an order for various articles receives at a grocery store. For instance, the company commander of Company A sends requisition for twenty coats, No. 2; he will receive probably ten of that number, the balance No. 1 or

No. 3, and so on through the list. The result naturally follows that there will be a surplus of clothing in the hands of the company too small for use, yet the State pays for them out of the allotment. Given the aggregate number of size No. 2 required by all the companies in the Guard, and requisition made on the War Department for them, wherein lies the discrepancy between requisition by and issue to the respective companies?

The companies generally are a representative lot of National Guard organizations throughout the country, except in those States where appropriations are more liberal.

Evidently greater care of Government property should be given by the company commanders, and here it would be pertinent to suggest that an effort be made to secure additional appropriations to meet the provisions of the present law, allowing $100 per annum to reimburse them in part for their efforts.

The regiment had the privilege of being under the command of the brigade commander at the encampment at Jamestown. While from a military standpoint but little was gained, there being no opportunity for instruction and drills to any extent, the Second Infantry contributed to the general display with credit to the State. The deportment of the men was good, and the opportunity of observing regulars off duty resulted in instilling into the minds of the men and officers many soldierly traits which will be of benefit in the future.

The team from the Second Infantry, under command of Lieutenant T. R. Orrell, of Company C, acquitted itself creditably and to the satisfaction of the commanding officer.

P. D. Shaw, Second Lieutenant Company L, Greensboro.
R. P. Hackney, Captain Company M, Durham.
Thomas S. Hall, First Lieutenant Company M, Durham.
Sidney C. Chambers, Second Lieutenant Company M, Durham.

The changes, both among officers and men, have not been so many this year as last, and while we realize that we have not reached the standard of efficiency required, yet we know that there is a growing sentiment and an interest manifested along that line which we have not had before. As a rule, the commissioned officers have endeavored to discharge their duties in a soldier-like manner. The enlisted men have been ready at all times to answer to any call that might be made upon them. There have been no serious riots or trouble of any kind to justify the calling out of any of the forces, yet we are ready to enforce the special orders from Governor Glenn, through the Adjutant General, on August 14, 1906.

ENCAMPMENT.

In obedience to general orders, we went into camp at "Camp John Smith," Jamestown Exposition, August 12th to 17th, inclusive. Owing to some misunderstanding, the boat did not make the proper connection at Pinner's Point, causing a delay of several hours, and part of the regiment did not reach the camp until 4 P. M. of the 12th. There were no accidents reported, either going or returning. The several officers in command of the trains reported the behavior of the men to be excellent. While this encampment did not afford us the experience and training we received last year, still it was very beneficial to the Guard and was greatly appreciated and enjoyed by them all. The conduct of the men while in camp was such as, "I think," to deserve special mention, as there was no occasion for any one to be placed under arrest. Upon my arrival, owing to sickness in my family, I found it necessary for me to return home, but came back the next day. During my absence the regiment was under the command of Lieutenant Colonel S. W. Minor. While at camp a "North Carolina National Guard Association" was formed, through which I hope the Guard may receive much benefit. I think the North Carolina National Guard felt very proud of "their day" at the exposition, and especially of their Commander in Chief, whom we are always ready to honor and obey.

We feel that our Guard is now passing through a very important crisis, this being the last of the five years in which we were required to conform to the "Dick bill." I trust that the War Department may feel and realize that we have this cause very much at heart. We feel that to be forced to go back to the State Guard would annul and disband the entire Guard.

We now see more clearly than ever what we have at stake, and should, under any and all circumstances, discharge our full duty.

I wish to extend to the Governor, to the Adjutant General, to our brigade commander and Quartermaster General and all other officers my appreciation and thanks for the courtesies shown and favors conferred during the past year. To the enlisted men I wish to express my gratitude for their good behavior and obedience to orders.

Very respectfully,

J. N. CRAIG,

Colonel Third Infantry, N. C. N. G.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 9. RALEIGH, July 19, 1907.

I. Target practice for the current year, on the State Range at Camp Glenn, will be performed by the First Infantry, Colonel J. T. Gardner commanding. The several companies composing the First Infantry, together with the Regimental Band and all field and staff officers, will entrain at their home stations the afternoon of August 8th, and proceed to Camp Glenn for encampment and target practice on the State Range for a period of seven days. Each company will be required to attend camp with not less than 70 per cent. of its enlisted strength, but no company will be allowed transportation, pay or rations for more than forty-five enlisted men. Company commanders must, under no circumstances, carry men to camp who are not regularly enlisted, or who are not able to perform military duty. The work of the camp will be restricted to target practice and guard duty, and the uniform worn on duty may be either cotton khaki or olive drab, in the discretion of the regimental commander.

II. The officers and enlisted men of the regiment, and any others that may be assigned thereto by special order, will be paid for seven days' service, and all enlisted men will receive rations for seven days. Travel rations will be supplied according to army rules and regulations.

III. The Quartermaster's Department will provide the necessary transportation, stores and camp equipage, and any other needful supplies allowed by law.

IV. The Surgeon General will recommend the usual detail of officers of the Medical Department for duty with this regiment, who will arrange necessary equipment.

V. The Hospital Corps Detachment at Charlotte will accompany the First Infantry to Camp Glenn and remain on duty there while that regiment is in camp.

VI. The Disbursing Officer will pay all officers and men on duty for the prescribed period of encampment, and settle all accounts for subsistence and other authorized camp expenses.

VII. Colonel J. T. Gardner, First Infantry, will command the camp and issue all orders for its proper government and discipline.

VIII. The travel enjoined will be on such schedules and by such lines of railroad as may be prescribed by the Quartermaster General.

IX. Colonel W. L. McGhee, State Inspector Small Arms Practice, is hereby appointed executive officer of the Rifle Range during the target practice of the First Infantry, and he will be assisted in the discharge of his duty by Major L. B. Bristol, of the Department of Small Arms Practice.

X. Special details will be provided for in subsequent orders, to be published in ample time.

By order of the Commander in Chief:

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
OFFICE ADJUTANT GENERAL,
GENERAL ORDERS No. 10. RALEIGH, July 22, 1907.

I. For the purpose of encamping for instruction, the Second and Third Regiments of Infantry and First Battery Field Artillery, North Carolina National Guard, will proceed to the Jamestown Exposition, Norfolk, Va., August 12, next, and go into camp for a period of five days. The First Regiment of Infantry, at the close of target practice at Camp Glenn, will proceed to the Jamestown Exposition the evening of August 15, and on arrival there join the Brigade Camp of Instruction, reporting for duty to General J. F. Armfield, Brigade Commander.

II. Each company will be required to attend camp with not less than 70 per cent. of its enlisted strength, but no company will be allowed transportation, pay or rations for more than forty-five enlisted men, except First Battery Field Artillery, which will be allowed fifty enlisted men. Company commanders must not carry any men to camp who are not regularly enlisted, or who are not able to perform military duty.

III. Drills and guard duty will be performed in summer service uniforms, either khaki or olive drab, in the discretion of the Brigade Commander. For parades and reviews both officers and men must appear in the blue or dress uniform from head to foot. Officers and men must not wear citizens' clothes or mixed uniforms, nor any other uniforms, except such as are herein prescribed or permitted by army regulations.

IV. The officers and enlisted men of the Second and Third Regiments of Infantry and of the First Battery Field Artillery, as well as the officers and enlisted men of the Medical Department on duty in camp, will be paid for five days' duty, and the enlisted men of all the organizations specified will receive rations for five days. Travel rations will be furnished enlisted men as provided by army regulations.

V. The officers and enlisted men of the First Infantry, and all others temporarily assigned thereto for duty, will be paid for one day at the Jamestown Exposition, and the enlisted men of that regiment and the organizations attached thereto will receive rations for a period of two days while in camp at the Exposition. Travel rations will be furnished enlisted men as provided by army regulations.

VI. Transportation, quartermaster's stores and camp equipage will be furnished by the Quartermaster General's Department, except where provided by the Exposition authorities.

VII. The Surgeon General will detail the required number of officers of the Medical Department for duty with the regiments at the Jamestown Exposition, who will arrange the necessary hospital service. The medical officers on duty with the First Infantry at Camp Glenn, together with the Charlotte Hospital Corps Detachment, will accompany the First Infantry to the Jamestown Exposition, and remain on duty with that regiment while it is on duty at the Exposition. The Clinton Hospital Corps Detachment and the Reidsville Hospital Corps Detachment will accompany the Second and Third Regiments of Infantry, respectively, to the encampment at the Jamestown Exposition and remain on duty there while those regiments are in camp.

VIII. The Disbursing Officer of the State will pay all officers and men on duty at the above indicated encampment, and for the periods of time herein specified, and will settle all accounts for subsistence and such other camp expenses as are allowed by the Secretary of War.

IX. General J. F. Armfield, First Brigade, North Carolina National Guard, will command the camp of instruction at the Jamestown Exposition, and will issue all orders necessary for the proper discipline and government of the camp.

X. All companies and organizations will travel to and from the Jamestown Exposition encampment on such schedules and by such routes of transportation as may be prescribed by the Quartermaster General.
